

About CWAM

CWAM exists to unite and serve museums in our two states. Membership is open to anyone who is interested in the field of museum work. Member institutions include art museums, history museums, natural history museums, historical sites, and other museum-related organizations. At our member museums you can see everything from astronauts to arachnids, dinosaurs to dolls and pioneers to Picassos. We have western forts, Victorian homes, living historical farms, and modern art centers. Our museums are located in the heart of modern cities like Denver and Cheyenne, in spectacular mountain valleys, and on wide-open plains with more sky than any other place in America.

Join our vibrant museum community and learn everything we have to offer!

Membership

Why should you become a CWAM member?

Since 1972, the Colorado-Wyoming Association of Museums (CWAM) has existed to benefit individuals, institutions, and organizations related to the museum profession throughout our region. CWAM programs bring small, mid, and large-sized museums together in an atmosphere of common growth and professional development. Museums of any size are welcomed and valued members. Individual membership further enhances networking opportunities for volunteers and paid staff alike.
